se whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder." The town folk cannot afford for two reasons—the one financial, the other moral and social—to let the State Agricultural Society go into dissolution. Why, this loss to the hotel- and saloon-keepers, the railroads, the wholesale and retail merchants of wisdom and more expanded ideas when ocean, mountain, and valley come together in one harmonious commingling; and the wives and daughters of the country, since the war compelled to closer confinement to household duties and drudgery, always look forward to this one meeting of relaxation and of opportunity for city sights and city purchases. Now, in view of these facts, which none will dispute, if each of the ninety-nine counties of the State will donate the sum of $250 by subscription, a mere trifle per capita, the aggregate will more than pay the Society's debt, and leave the city appropriation and the proceeds of the sale of the present grounds, with the aid tendered by the railroads, ample to purchase and equip suitable grounds accessible by steam. Cannot a citizen in each country be found to make this effort? It may be done on one court-day. [For the Dispatch.] Cotton-Growing in Virginia.

I doubt whether the advice to the farm-ers of our State to extend the cultivation of cotton is wise. It seems almost impossible to improve lands where cotton and few lots get all the manure, and the rest of the farm goes down. If cotton is the crop, 11,003 35 few lots get all the manure, and the rest of the farm goes down. If cotton is the crop, and clean lands the great desideratum, and clean lands the great desi tobacco are raised. If tobacco is raised a few lots get all the manure, and the rest of rich bottoms of the Roanoke no grasses or stock were visible, whereas thousands ought to be found here grazing on rich grasses, as on the fertile lands and meadows of Holland. The consequence of all this is that nothing but a few scrubby stock are seen all through the section alluded to. No permanent improvement, can be effected. permanent improvement can be effected in the lands of a country without grasses and stock, and its permanent prosperity may generally be estimated by the number of stock and quantity of grass raised. The of stock and quantity of grass of the contraction for railroads receive good remuneration for transporting cotton, but the lands do not improve, and a few merchants in the villages along the railroads get support by handling cotton. That the South may successfully raise the grasses, at least as far south as Georgia, has been demonstrated by such as Georgia, has been demonstrated by Laward, of Georgia, in his correction—weather—crop and court in the correction of the correction of the correction of the correction of the court of the correction of the court of Mr. C. W. Howard, of Georgia, in his "Manual on Grasses." We believe in the truth of the old Belgian proverb:

"No grass, no cattle; No cattle, no manure; No manure, no grass."

Brooklyn Tabernacie Sunday morning for the first time since his recent visit to the South. He said that his trip was a most pleasant one, and that the kindness shown him by the southern people would never be forgotten by him. He spoke of the blooming trees and bright flowers, many specimens of which he intended bringing North but on his way the plants withered.

An attempt to wreck a train was made of leading amusement managers, April. 25, 1882.

Instead of eighty cattle, Mr. William G. Crenshaw has lost only five or six head in a herd of two hundred and sixty. I crossexamined the gentleman who reported the former loss, and the report came so direct and through such a credible witness that I was made to believe the "lie with circumstance." I doubt if there are eighty cattle on any other farm than "Hawfield" in the county, and only about Mr. Crenshaw could such a story have been told.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 25.—The Mormons, who are working in the western part of this State, are also devoting their attention to making converts in the eastern countries. ties. There are several Mormon elders, as they call themselves, holding secret meet-ings in Pitt and other counties, and they are making converts, but not rapidly. As soon as converts are made they are bap-tized and sent to Utah. Several families have just departed for that Territory, and considerable excitement prevails. It is pro-bable that efforts will be made to drive the Mormon teachers from the State.

Why Jewish Refugees are Marrying. London, April 25.—A dispatch to the Times from Odessa says: "The poorer Jews are said to be marrying here at the rate of 150 couples per day. They imagine that if they are married land will be given to them free in America or Palestine."
